

39 DESIGNERS JOIN FORCES FOR THE 2020 LAKE FOREST SHOWHOUSE

Check out these 16 rooms and gardens—and steal their ideas for your own home.

Aimée Mazzenga

A showhouse is the quintessential format for interior designers and architects to show off their skills—especially since there are limited restrictions from the clients, who exist only in their imaginations. This year, 39 interior and landscape designers are participating in the 2020 Lake Forest Showhouse, just outside Chicago, transforming an 11,000-square-foot 1906 home—originally designed by Frost and Granger and later updated by architect Stanley Anderson—into a house full of ideas and inspiration. The house is open to visitors through August 9, but if you're unable to make it, we've selected our 16 favorite rooms for your perusal below. Read on and prepare to be inspired.

13

A WOMAN'S RETREAT BY ANDREA GOLDMAN

Aimée Mazzenga

Complete with a yoga corner and plenty of space to unwind, this space by Andrea Goldman was designed for relaxation. The floating rope-and-glass fixture by Longhouse draws the eye up to the vaulted ceiling, and the console is by RH, Restoration Hardware.